

2018 Doesn't Look Quite Like Other Election Cycles

Average lead in early generic polls for the party in power  or the party out of power .

Values represent the average of all polls between 220 and 420 days before an election.

By The New York Times